Phone bidding, how it works

Phone bidding is provided as a convenience to bidders who are not able to attend the auction. We gladly accept phone bids for lots in our auctions. There are many advantages to phone bidding. By phone bidding you can be a part of the live auction even if you cannot physically attend. Phone bidding allows you to make decisions at the moment based on the bidding within the sale room.

What do you need to do?

- We will first make a record of your phone bid. You can download phone bidding form from our web site elephantparade.com. When you have fill it you must send us by fax at the fax number: +39 0332 455147
Besides providing us with your name and address and other relevant information, we also encourage you to give us two phone numbers, of which the second number is used as a back-up in case of a busy signal, poor connection, etc. You do not have to call us as we will call you a few lots before 'your' elephant comes up.
- Bids by fax are accepted until the H 24.00 del 20th November 2011
- We also ask phone bidders to leave a "maximum absentee/disaster bid" in case there are any problems contacting you on the day of the auction. We would use this bid only in the worst case scenario if we cannot get a hold of you. This ultimately protects your bid from any technical glitches that could arise on the day of the sale.
- One of our employees will call you a few lots prior to your lot and inform you on the situation in the sale room. Once your lot is 'on', you will be guided through de bid steps and upon your request, our employee will bid on behalf of you. You will know immediately if you have been successful in your bidding, just the same as when you would be live at the auction!

Payment Instructions

Once you have been successful, you will be handed over a invoice the hammer price of the elephant plus the percentage of VAT applicable in the country where the auction takes place, a payment instructions form and a transportation instruction form. Payment should be made through bank transfer.
